

WOMEN WHO HAVE PROVED THEIR SECAP

Unusual Wartime Occupations in Europe Not More Exacting an So

Miss Ruth Law, whose feats in the air rival those of the most daring male aviator. She was the first American woman to loop the loop.

Copyright, Underwood & Underwood.

Miss Belle Green, secretary and librarian to the late J. Pierpont Morgan, who has earned the reputation of one of the foremost experts in her line in the world.

"Not she with traitorous kiss her Saviour stung,
Not she denied him with unholy tongue;
She, while apostles shrank, could dangers brave,
Last at the cross and earliest at the grave."
—Eaton Stannard Barrett (1786-1820).

At the right—Miss Kate Shea and Mrs. Warren are "waste basket searchers" in the United States Treasury at Washington. They have saved the Government thousands of dollars. Mrs. Warren once found $10,000 in a waste basket.

Copyright, G. V. Buck.

See the business of Miss Kate Shea and Mrs. Warren. She started in the waste basket search.

English women in war time have proved themselves capable of doing man's heaviest work. These women are acting as "navvies" in the municipal gasworks at Coventry.

Much of France's huge output of shells is the work of women, who have shown themselves expert in handling the most intricate machinery. These women are making projectiles for the famous French 75's.

Women are doing most of the work in the sheep shearing. year-old girl, Alexandra Smith, who won the prize for the best woolly won.

Photo from